An Exciting Leadership Initiative...

Ontario's Anesthesiologists have recognized that developing the leadership capabilities of its constituents is a top priority. You are our voice, and how effective your voice is determines not only your professional successes, but also the safety of our patients and the credibility of our profession. We also realize that physicians are not trained with the leadership skills necessary to build environments of excellence that allow us to execute our craft with precision, innovation, and safety.

We have secured financial support from Fresenius Kabi and gained educational expertise to create a unique "school" to train an interested group with these complex skills. Our goal is to develop an institute in which the theory and practice is customized to the problems faced by us in our work environments. In the past, this has been a challenge because the majority of experts who teach leadership across North America know very little about the distinctive and subtle dynamics that make our specialty so challenging.

Tuition will be covered for the selected group of candidates. To apply, please visit our website:
